

City of Santa Fe
Office of Emergency Management

Get “In The Know” when it comes to emergency preparedness and help make the City Different the City Prepared!

Get “In The Know” About:

The Hazards	What You Need	How to Stay Connected
In your home <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Electrical hazards• Fall hazards• Fire/Burn hazards• Drowning hazards• Dangerous chemicals In your community <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Wildfires• Flooding• Winter Storms• Utility Disruptions• Extreme Temperatures• Hazardous Material Releases When traveling <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Weather Forecasts• Road Conditions• Medical concerns for international travel	A practiced emergency plan <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Sheltering in place (for up to 72 hours)• Fire/Gas leak procedures• Evacuations (try to identify two routes out of your neighborhood)• Emergency family meeting place away from your home An Emergency Supply Kit <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Food/Water• Medical supplies/Medication• Important documents• Extra clothing• First Aid Kit• Battery-powered radio/flashlight• Extra cell phone battery/charger• Pet supplies Emergency Training <ul style="list-style-type: none">• CPR• First Aid (Infant, Child, Adult)	Emergency Contact Numbers <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Family and Neighbors• School/Work• 911 (to report an emergency) Alerts and updates <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Santa Fe Reverse 911 santafe911.onthealert.com• Nixle www.nixle.com• City of Santa Fe Website www.santafenm.gov• Twitter @SantaFeOEM Share what you see <ul style="list-style-type: none">• 911 (to report an emergency)• Santa Fe Non-Emergency Dispatch: 505-428-3710• Suspicious Activity Reporting www.nsi.ncirc.gov

Emergencies and disasters can strike any time, any where. The City of Santa Fe works hard to ensure our Fire, Police, Public Works, Public Utilities, and every other City Department with a role to play in emergency response is well trained and equipped to handle emergencies and disasters as they arise. But the citizens of Santa Fe have a responsibility to prepare themselves as well. The “In The Know” program is designed to inform our citizens about how they can better prepare themselves, their families, and their communities for emergencies and disasters they may face. The three categories listed above (“The Hazards”, “What You Need”, and “How to Stay Connected”) provide a great starting point for Santa Feans to begin the preparedness process. Below is a list of additional resources that can help make sure the City Different is also the City Prepared!

Emergency Household Planning Guidance: <http://www.ready.gov/emergency-planning-checklists>

Suggestions for your Emergency Kit: <http://www.santafenm.gov/index.aspx?nid=1586>

Emergency Training Resources: FEMA On-Line Training (Free!): <http://training.fema.gov/IS/crslist.aspx>

American Red Cross of New Mexico: <http://www.redcross.org/take-a-class>

Hazard Information: Road Conditions in New Mexico: <http://nmroads.com/>

Current weather/forecasts: <http://www.srh.noaa.gov/abq/>

Emergency Applications (Apps) for Smartphones: <http://appcomm.org/>

Contact the Santa Fe Office of Emergency Management:

Email: aphelps@santafenm.gov

Phone: 505-955-6537